

Project 3 Analysis/Screenshots – Christian Hanchett & Chevy Pawlik

The following screenshots showcase most of the interactions for our page, including adding notes, displaying notes, editing notes, and removing notes. Error handling is also shown for most interactions when the username or note input is empty, or the server is unreachable to modify a note.

Webpage Loads:

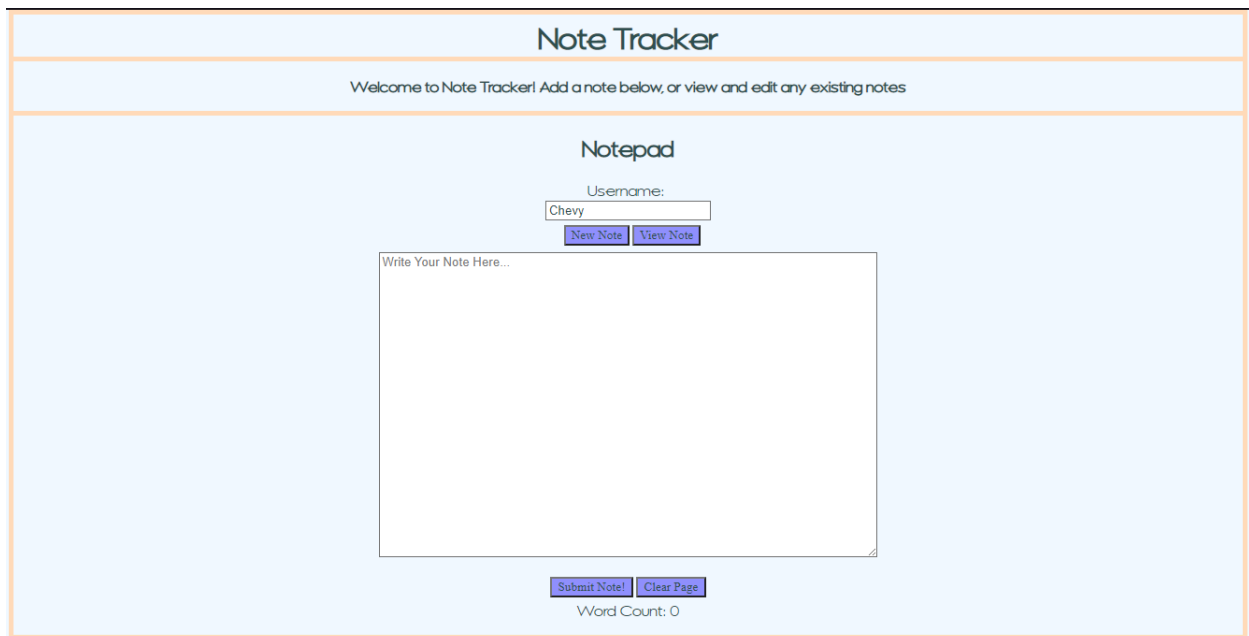

The screenshot shows the 'Note Tracker' application interface. At the top, the title 'Note Tracker' is centered. Below it, a welcome message reads: 'Welcome to Note Tracker! Add a note below, or view and edit any existing notes'. The main section is titled 'Notepad'. It features a 'Username:' label followed by an empty text input field. Below the input field are two buttons: 'New Note' and 'View Note'. At the bottom of the section, it says 'Word Count: 0'.

No Username Inputted:

This screenshot shows the same 'Note Tracker' interface as the previous one, but with an error message. Below the welcome message, the text 'Please enter a username' is displayed in red. The 'Notepad' section remains the same, with the 'Username:' input field still empty and the 'Word Count: 0' at the bottom.

Username Inputted & New Note:

This screenshot shows the 'Note Tracker' interface after a username has been entered. The 'Username:' input field now contains the text 'Chevy'. Below the input field, the 'New Note' and 'View Note' buttons are still present. A large text area for writing a note is now visible, with the placeholder text 'Write Your Note Here...'. At the bottom of the note area, there are two buttons: 'Submit Note!' and 'Clear Page'. The 'Word Count: 0' is still displayed at the very bottom.

This showcases most of our functionality and error handling, and all notes will be stored in the Notes folder found in our project files. Viewing the notes through the username.txt file will look weird since we use '&&' as a delimiter to separate all notes for a username, so displaying them will show them properly.
